

FEEDING THE DEMONS

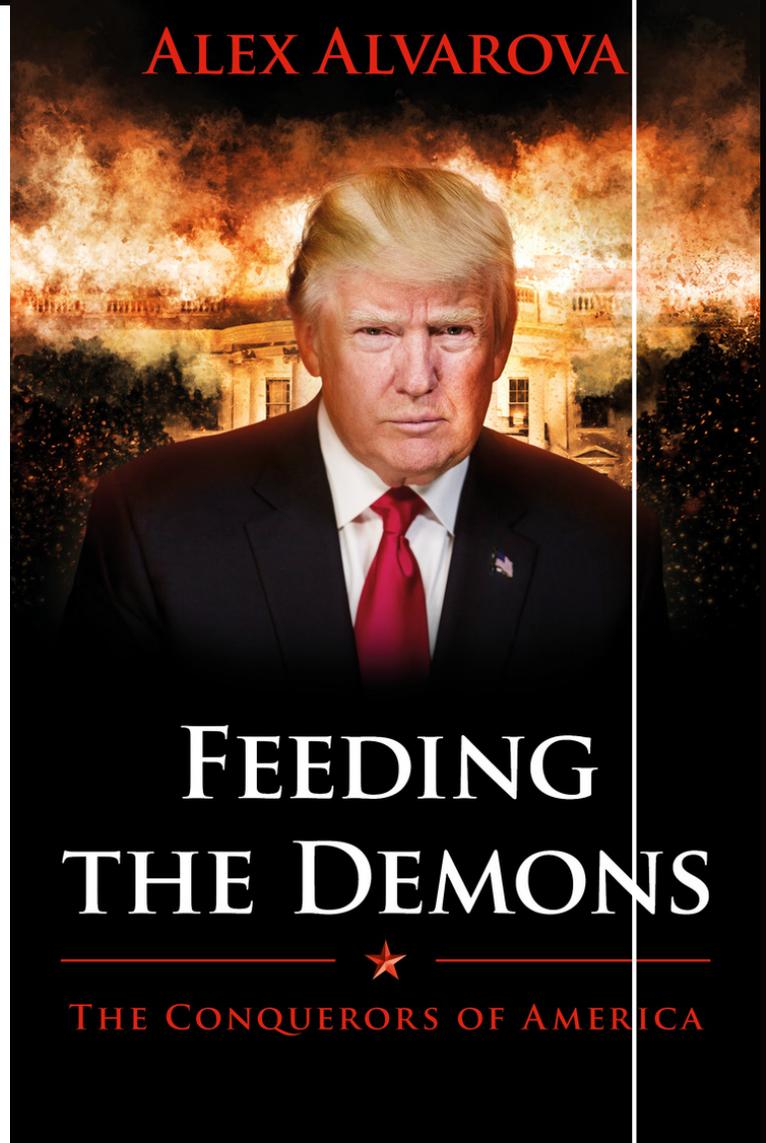

Christmas is here! It's reading time!

SPY THRILLER FOR ACTION LOVERS

Written by Alex Alvarova

The book tells a story very similar to the life experience of American propagandist Steve Bannon. It tries to explain, in illustrative examples and situations, how it is possible to get the decision-making and emotions of millions of people under control just by using Big Data and modern technology. When you finish, you 'll understand, how this political puppet razzle-dazzle really works.

The story drifts into the fictional backwater of the Brexit election operations and the US election 2016, following not only the dark art of the great propaganda wizard Scott Brennan, but also the sponsors who made these paramilitary operations possible. People who read the book were both excited and horrified at the same time. For the book rather mercilessly shows what can be done on the internet to the entire nations and their state of mind.

The Amazon sample of the book can also be leafed through the first part for free to give you something to look forward to. The book is full of action, international political intrigue and murder, like any proper thriller.

Except, perhaps, that something similar just happened to us.
